

Association of American Medical Colleges Artist Consent Form

I, _____, hereby authorize and permit the Association of American Medical Colleges (“AAMC”) to use my submitted original artwork inspired by a health care experience and write up (“Work”) on both the cover and inside Academic Medicine (“Journal”), the journal of the AAMC.

I grant AAMC the right to display, reproduce, and distribute the Work in connection with the Journal in all media formats, including but not limited to print and World Wide Web posting for the life of the copyright.

I agree not to grant the right to publish any part of the Work as cover art on a periodical or magazine for the term of twelve (12) months after the original publication of the Work in the Journal.

I warrant that:

- I am the sole owner of the Work and all of the rights granted herein;
- I am able to grant the rights listed herein and am not limited or restricted by any agreements with third parties to grant these rights; and
- the Work provided to the AAMC does not infringe on the copyright of any third party or contain plagiarized content.

Should any of the Work I provide to the AAMC become the subject of any infringement claim or suit, or are deemed by AAMC to contain plagiarized or infringing material, I will obtain for the AAMC the right to continue using the Work or replace or modify them to make them non-infringing, original works, provided such modifications still meet the needs of the AAMC.
